

One more step towards solidarity!

The third edition of the Salon des Solidarités will take place from 4 to 6 June 2010 in Porte de Versailles, Paris.

This event encourages the meeting, the exchange and the emergence of partnerships between the different solidarity actors and familiarise the general public with international solidarity issues in proposing concrete engagement solutions.

The new edition will allow all actors of international solidarity, fair trade, development, cooperation and integration to gather in a more central world-renowned place.

After two editions at the Parc Floral, Paris, the Salon actually relocates to the Parc des Expositions, Porte de Versailles, so that the access to a place well known to the general public is facilitated and the different animations, conferences and workshops are highlighted.

The new thing in 2010 is the creation of a steering committee made of different international solidarity actors. In a participative framework, the committee is in charge of orientations identification, the work on the contents and the goals and the steering of the commissions created to work out the conferences, the animations and the communication on the event.
