

To volunteer for the Salon des Solidarités is the first solidary gesture !

On the occasion of the World Volunteerism Day on December 5 the Salons de Solidarités's organisers will start recruiting volunteers for the third edition of the Fair that will take place from 4 to 6 June 2010 in Porte de Versailles, Paris.

The Fair wants to be the inevitable meeting place between the general public and international solidarity actors. During three days at the exhibition centre in Porte de Versailles, Paris, NGOs, companies, institutions will present their activities, arouse the public's interest in solidarity, make them understand the stakes and offer concrete engagement possibilities. On this third edition not fewer than 250 exhibitors and nearly 20.000 visitors are actually expected.

In 2008 a team of more than 95 volunteers made the realization of the project possible. With a wealth of success the organisers hope that they will mobilize over a hundred people who will take a specific training before the event.

For all those who will choose to give their voluntary help to the organisers, the Fair will then be the unique opportunity to go behind the event's scenes in direct contact with the main international solidarity actors.
